In the business environment where security hazards can affect your bottom line it's essential to choose a leading security provider that can positively impact and mitigate business risk.

Thorburn Security Solutions – a proud member of the Tsebo Solutions Group – is a specialist provider of secure risk solutions in Southern Africa.

Our early adaptation and convergence of AI technology to provide smart thermal fever screening, as a result of COVID-19, led to multiple award-winning projects and various blue-chip customers expressing that they were impressed with our electronic solutions teams around South Africa.

With a nationwide footprint and years of expertise, Thorburn is large enough to ensure integrated protection aligned to global standards, yet small enough to care.

We respect the importance of business continuity and understand that there is no one-size-fits-all security solution. Which is why we partner with businesses to design fit-for-purpose, intelligence-driven solutions that combine leading-edge technology and human capital.

- Facial Recognition: the health crisis highlighted the need for hygienic and user-friendly, hands-free access solutions that offers high-level access control.
- Guard-to-Tech: aimed at reducing the reliance on physical guarding through the use of remote-management systems, backed by highly trained monitoring teams using the latest surveillance technology.
